

Lesson

9

„At the Restaurant“

photo © Paha_L – FOTOLIA

Dialogue 9

Brian: Oh take a look at the menu!

Linda: Great! I will take the fish! And you?

Brian: I will probably order the fish, too. I do not know yet!

Linda: Let us talk a little bit about your future! What are your plans?

Brian: I am going to become a doctor.

Linda: Great! And what are you going to do after that?

Brian: Afterwards, I am going to work in a hospital in England.

Linda: And are you going to stay in London?

Brian: Perhaps I will go back to Germany. Only time will tell. I would like to have family.

Linda: Really?

Brian: Yeah, why not? Hahahaha. And you?

Linda: If you like, then I will tell you now about my feelings and plans!

Brian: I would like to hear them! Tell me.

Linda: If I had the chance to do everything again, I would just do it again. But if I had studied, I would have studied medicine or law. If I stay here in London, I will marry a nice young man. If I had the choice, we would have a big family.

Brian: You are very honest and open, that is great.

Linda: If I say something, I always mean it.

Brian: And if I listen, I can always keep a secret.

Linda: I hope so! Because if you couldn't, I would tear your head off. Hahahaha.

Brian: But before that, you would kiss me, if I asked you!

Linda: If you hadn't just said that, I probably would have! Hahaha. Oh look, the waiter is coming!

Brian: We would like the fish and the best wine you have!

Grammar 9 A: Future Tense "will" :

Singular:	Plural:
1. I will play	1. We will play
2. You will play	2. You will play
3. He will play, she will play, it will play	3. They will play

Grammar 9 B: Future Tense "going to" :

Singular:	Plural:
1. I am going to play	1. We are going to play
2. You are going to play	2. You are going to play
3. He is going to play, she is going to play, it is going to play	3. They are going to play

Grammar 9 C: Future Forms

Tenses with future meaning	Examples
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Use Future Tense "will" for future events that cannot be controlled and for spontaneous reactions, 2. Future Tense "going to" for plans, intentions and the near future, 3. Present Simple for schedules (e. g. times of arrivals and departures), 4. Present Progressive for individual plans and intentions. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. "I think I will be back at seven." 2. "I am going to become a teacher." 3. "I am playing chess with him tomorrow." 4. "The train leaves at eight".

Grammar 9 D: Conditional Forms

Conditional Clauses	Examples:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Type 1 for a general fact or something that is always true: If + Simple Present, Future "will" (or Simple Present for general facts). • Type 2 for imaginary or unreal events and actions: If + Simple Past, Conditional 1. • Type 3 for past situation that did not happen: If + Past Perfect, Conditional 2. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Type 1: "If the rain stops, the game will continue". • Type 2: "If he invited me to his party, I would come". • Type 3: "If he had taken better care, the accident would not have happened".

Exercise 9 A

Fill in the correct future form of the verb. Choose from this box:
am am are are going to going to going to going to will will will will will Brian: Oh take a look at the menu! Linda: Great! I _____ take the fish! And you?

 Brian: I _____ probably order the fish, too. I do not know yet! Linda: Let us talk a little bit about your future! What are your plans? Brian: I _____ _____ become a doctor. Linda: Great! And what _____ you _____ do after that? Brian: Afterwards, I _____ work in a hospital in England.
 Linda: And _____ you _____ stay in London? Brian: Perhaps I _____ go back to Germany. Only time _____ tell. I would like to have family. Linda: Really? Brian: Yeah, why not? Hahahaha. And you?

Exercise 9 B

Fill in the correct form of the conditional forms. Choose from this box:
asked can couldn't do had had had hadn't have have have keep kiss leave like like like listen marry mean said say stay studied studied tear tell will will would would would would would would would would

Linda: If you _____, then I _____ you now about my feelings and plans! Brian: I _____ to hear them! Tell me. Linda: If I _____ the chance to do everything again, I _____ just _____ it again. But if I _____ _____, I _____ medicine or law. If I _____ here in London, I _____ a nice young man. If I _____ the choice, we _____ a big family. Brian: You are very honest and open, that is great. Linda: If I _____ something, I always _____ it. Brian: And if I
 _____, I _____ always _____ a secret. Linda: I hope so! Because if you
 _____, I _____ your head off. Hahahaha. Brian: But before that, you _____ me, if I _____ you! Linda: If you _____ just _____ that, I probably _____! Hahaha. Oh look, the waiter is coming! Brian: We _____ the fish and the best wine you have!